We the communicators

Every year the yearbook staff tries to capture, in as many pages as possible, the feeling and events of a school year.

In September, the Bicentennial of our United States Constitution was celebrated by the entire nation. The staff decided to make their theme the first three words of our country's greatest document, "WE THE PEOPLE," which pervade throughout this book.

After the purchase of the computer last year, the staff has tried to constantly upgrade the book using modern technology. All layouts have been drawn on the computer and sent to the publishing company on disks.

They have added "Indexation" which lists all Blanco L. S. D. students and personnel in the back of the book with the page or pages which their name or picture appears.

The last week of each month of school, the staff puts together a monthly newspaper that appears in the Blanco County News. It is given free of charge to all students so that there is a line of communication between students and the people of Blanco.

Our faithful advertisers are to be congratulated; they make the over 200 copies sold affordable. Without the ad and picture sales, the price would be much higher than the $18 price.

The staff hopes all the readers of this yearbook enjoy the information that they have put together. Their real reward comes later when they can look back and see that they caught the real feel of BHS.

Right: Looking back at last year's yearbook gives the staff a way to improve future publications. Sherry Edge (Dell Team, Cheerleader, Soccer) and Keith Fisher (Girls Basketball, Baseball, Volleyball, Tennis) want their part of the newspaper and yearbook to reflect the mood of 1987-88, which is unique to the people involved.

Below: Jeffrey (Furb) Runnes (National Honor Society, U.I., Justice, Student Council) and Andy Graft (Honorarium and Art) have learned that putting together words and pictures is challenging the first time, but gets easier after the first deadline. The new computer software took a while for them to master, but soon became a pleasure.

Below right: Lali Gonzalez (DHA, Sophomore, Middle School Sports, Football, Boys Basketball) is constantly teased about her size, but the work she does makes up for the teasing that excessive enjoys. Her photography abilities show how much of a contributor she is to all publications.

Lena Leinonen (Faculty, Drama, Art, Elementary) and Melissa Blackburn (Art) find that "the right words" for a picture take a lot of thought, rehearsal, and creativity to not miss the real feeling that the camera captures in less than 1/60th of a second.

Left: Pictures play a large part in communicating feelings to others. The 1988 Panther & Panther Chat are full of photographs that try to capture the year that has special meaning to so many. Laura Smith (Bowling, Elementary, Freshman), Darrell West (Track, FFA, Soccer), and Sherry Reed (Chat/Yearbook Staff, Senior Trip, Volleyball, Journalism, Art) have designed negatives and made prints that they hope will communicate feelings to the reader.

Below: A journalist must be able to type so that the words they compose can be easily read and interpreted. Brian Brocher's (Administration, Seniors, Senior Index) typing ability and computer knowledge helped her to grasp the link between words and pictures.

Above: Every year a new staff must be trained to meet deadlines, take pictures, and write copy for the yearbook and newspaper. Advisor Billy Spurgin enjoys the challenge of getting information from the school to the public through the staff members.

Putting together publications is not all work to the staff. Every once in a while, the staff gets a little "crazy" and "does its thing." At the beginning of the year, they don't know the challenge in front of them but after a few months the reality of their work becomes apparent — covering the year in the newspaper and yearbook.

Happiness, sadness, and reflection are on the faces of the seniors at graduation. The time they have anticipated has arrived, and they are full of both fear and longing for a full life. The BIG STEP has arrived.

We the seniors

A senior class of 42 needs strong leadership in order to fulfill its obligation to the community and the school. They depend on the class officers' responsibility and leadership to pave the way through a successful year. The 1987-88 senior class officers had the experience and knowledge to organize successful senior activities and fund-raising projects. They are: President Chris Muehke (bottom left), Vice President Brian Krzywowski, Sponsor Edward Lindsay (top left), Sponsor Steve Costin and Secretary/Treasurer Robert Ujdaus.

"Senior Year" has some ups and downs, beginning the first day of school. During the second game of the football season, Vice President Brian Krzywowski sustained a knee injury which resulted in surgery. The recuperation took several months, but upon his return, he helped guide the class in selling chili supper tickets and "Wreck's Finest chocolate boxes" to raise money for the senior bank account.

Seniors are often very busy people. Although Robert Ujdaus is very active in athletics and school organizations, he shows everyone that he really supports his class by serving as Secretary/Treasurer. Just as it takes perseverance and hard work to run a mile, it takes dedication and a sincere interest in the welfare and happiness of others to be a successful class officer.

Left: The highlight of a volleyball player's career is being selected as the "Most Spirited Player" of the week at the pep rally. After being awarded this honor, Tracy Mason was honored to say a few words to the crowd in support of the volleyball team. In all her endeavors, she is recognized as an asset for her involvement.

Best All Around show top male and female

It takes a special person to be selected by classmates as BEST ALL AROUND. Tracy Mayo and Chris Muehke are two special people. They each are well liked by many and are active in academics, sports and school organizations. They exemplify a "senior of '88."

Chris serves as president of the student council, class president, and a member of the National Honor Society. Tracy is an active FHA officer, and finds time from her school work to keep statistics for the baseball team. Both are honor roll students. These students' love and dedication to their class made them obvious choices for the "best of the best."

Above Right: Leadership usually means taking the initiative, and thus encouraging others with "It's not so bad." The student council's blood drive was the first time for many to donate blood, and Senior Class President and Student Council President Chris Muehke went first, showing many anxious students that "it's okay." The effort led to a successful blood drive which helped many people. Chris can always be found helping and encouraging others, and this is one trait which really helps him to relate to people.

When seniors are picked as football's "Most Spirited" for the week, they make a speech telling the audience what the team expects to do for BHS. Jeff's dedication made him a valuable leader and player on the Panther team.

Jeffrey D. Hudson, Valedictorian

At the prom, Jeff and girls attending were "docked out" in tuxes. Since most had rented last year, they felt comfortable "getting down" in formal clothes.

Valedictorian Jeffrey D. Hudson is the son of D. G. and Mary Hudson of Blanco. After his birth in San Antonio, he lived in Houston and Bonumont before coming to Blanco in the 4th grade.

During middle school years, he was involved in TAG+ for math, science, and English. He was an athlete in football and basketball.

High school has been an adventure for Jeff. He has competed for 3 years in ULL Literary. He has tried ready writing and extemporaneous informative speaking. He qualified for regional this year in informative speaking.

Organizations and being a part of his class have been a big part of Jeff's life. He has been in National Honor Society for 3 years, a member of the student council for 2 years, and president of his sophomore class.

Athletically in high school, football and track have been Jeff's main focus. He lettered 2 years in football and 3 years in track. This year he received honorable mention in football.

Jeff's plans upon graduation are to attend Fort Dix for basic training before entering Fort Monmouth in New Jersey for military, athletics, English, and math courses. Upon completion of school in New Jersey, he hopes to become a cadet at the United States Military Academy in West Point, New York.

"I want to thank all the faculty at Blanco for my education. Through their teaching, they have planted success in the desires of all seniors. A special thanks goes to all those who have helped me make my dream a possible reality," said Jeff.

Christopher Wayne Moehnke, Salutatorian

Jeff, Chris honored for scholastic excellence

Salutatorian Christopher Wayne Moehnke is the son of Larry and Deborah Moehnke. He is the oldest of three children with a sister 16, and a brother 10.

As a native of New Braunfels, Chris attended school in the Comal I. S. D. until his family's move to Blanco in 1985.

During middle and high school years, Chris has been very involved in many activities and organizations. He has achieved honors by being ranked in the top 5% on the National Education Development Test and being selected to the All District Choir his freshmen year at Canyon High. He earned a trip to Washington, D.C. as a winner in the Government-In-Action Essay and Oratorical Contest sponsored by PEC.

Academically, Chris has been in the TAG+ throughout his school years, National Honor Society, and participated in U.L.L. Literary competition.

In leadership capacity, he has served as Student Council president, Junior and Senior class president, football team captain, and Boy's State representative. As a Student Council representative, Chris has attended the State Convention all 4 years and summer workshops for 2.

Athletically, Chris has played football — 1st team All-District offense and 2nd team defense, basketball — honorable mention, baseball — All-District pitcher, and track.

Chris is a member of Trinity Lutheran Church and has been active in the youth group.

After graduation Chris plans to attend UT majoring in pre-law.

Chris was extremely honored by his fellow football players when they elected him as a captain. At the Homecoming banquet and pep rally, his motivating speech told everyone that the team had the desire to win for the fans and themselves.

Chris is involved in nearly every sport offered in high school. He has excelled in football and baseball especially making All-District honors in both sports. He has made "Stat King" pitching for the district winning team.

Senior Valedictorian and Salutatorian 9

Cecilio Acosta, Jr.

Melissa Suzanne Anderson

Briana Marie Buscher

Eduardo Luna Calzonetti

Tammy Dawn Chance

Chanta Darlene Coldewey

For four years Chanta Coldewey has been a member of the BHS band. The band has constantly improved since her freshman year and this year they were one step away from a sweepstakes band, their ultimate goal.

Class Ring — (over)

During the medieval dress-up day in February, Tammy Chance took some time out of her studying for the UIL Accounting test, and had a lot of fun as a sorc. Tammy was the only accounting student who wanted to attempt the UIL test; she placed well in the florence and district meet.

Chosen as most likely to succeed by the Seniors of '88 were Briana Buscher and Brian Kreywonski. They were picked because of their participation in organizations where they display brilliant leadership. Briana has served as State Vice-President of Projects and Region V President of Future Housewives of America. She is currently planning to attend Southwest Texas State University. Brian has taken on vice president of both the senior class and the student council. He plans to attend the University of Texas at Austin.

It's Gettin' Better every day,

At the state FFA convention in Ft. Worth, Cecilio Acosta (2nd, left), Sandra Vargas, Betty Uvalde (top), and Lulu Gonzalez won 4th place in the All Star Chapter display event on April 22 and 23.

The John Phillip Sousa Award is given to the senior who puts forth the most effort in being an all-around band student. Melissa Anderson accepted her award at the spring concert in May from Band Director Jerry Frazier.

Every so often people have fun getting "out of character." Eddie Calzonetti and several other senior boys were certainly out of character in cheer-leading and drill team skirts; but their fun-loving attitudes created a lot of excitement and built up spirit for the football game against Johnson City.

Mark Christopher Caller

William Travis Davis

Sherri Ann Edge

Ronald Lee Edmondson

Gerald Douglas Elrod

Keith Jeffrey Fisher

Stacy Stauffer, Travis Davis, and Darrell West were the senior winners in the medieval dress-up day contest held by the sophomore and senior English classes in February. Travis and Darrell tied for their "cute" costumes.

Clark King - Carol Fisher

Everyone enjoys going to pep rallies during football season to display their feelings and confidence in the Panther team. Ronny Edmondson will do just about anything to show his support, and that a 6'5" male, "egg" senior will even eat lady food.

Being a senior in high school is one of the best times of life; it is when a lot of one's best qualities start to emerge. Chosen as the two with the best personalities were Dawn Fritsche and Keith Fisher. Their personalities made the year go by more smoothly and kept it fun. Both of them are definitely the senior "Class Clowns" with the "Insides" laughs and biggest smiles.

I'm a hard working man,

During the morning break, there is always something "happening." Sometimes, Mark Caller always ends up in the middle of the situation. This year, Mark has become known as the "Barren" of the IHS campus due to the flock of women that often surround him.

Homecoming is a time for everyone to come together. It is also a time for each school organization to nominate a senior candidate for Homecoming Queen. A candidate must be a good overall student with a good personality. Sherri Edge was chosen by the Panthers to represent them in the contest. She was a natural because she is currently serving as Miss Blaine.

Speaking before a crowd is not easy; often, all the words you thought and wanted to say will desert brain and vocal cords. Gerald Elrod was not at a loss for words before the Homecoming game against Center Point because he was "fired up" to win.

Dawn Marie Fritsche

Obdulia Gonzalez

Joel Shannon Gourley

Carla Denise Greenhaw

Karen Ann Herrin

Kevin William Jonas

Left: The joking manner of Dawn has finally caught up with her as she has been "tagged" by the volleyball team, but her "mouth" will never be put under lock and key!

Citizenship awards are one of the prestigious honors students can receive during high school. Freda Orens (front), Chris Machrie (left), Luis Gonzalez, and Robert Upshaw were chosen by the faculty because of their leadership, academic excellence, and overall attitudes.

Below: Because of the love they have for their school and classmates, Brian Edmondson and Luis Gonzalez were chosen by the seniors as Most Friendly from the class. Their presence is a great asset to the class.

Chris Machrie — Carla Greenhaw

Good things are coming my way . . .

Her knowledge and patience earned Karen the scholastic award for the top grade in accounting and personal business management/personal finance. She is planning to go to court reporting school after graduation.

During the talent show before Christmas break, Kevin Jonas played the part of Ed from a popular drink commercial. His personality fit the part because Ed is a quiet man that speaks as if he knows what he is talking about.

Joel Gourley dresses a bit strangely at times, but not as "weird" as he did for the Medieval Dress-up day. The large hat did not quiet down his boisterous, friendly laugh.

The 6 years that Carla Greenhaw has put into playing the tennis are easy to see both during practice and in her performance at games and events.

William Edward Jones

Jim Andy Kimbro

Brian Keith Krzywonski

Lena Katarina Leinonen

Robert Allen Love

James Dean Martin

During lunch, Dean Martin gets his mind off class by pitching horseshoes with his friends in front of the ag shop. Diversions are sometimes necessary in Genie's home.

Dean Martin — Genie's Home

Left: Every day during break, Brian Krzywonski can be found at his locker getting his snack out of his lunch, which usually consists of "goldfish" and "HC" fruit drink. A snack at 10:15 can usually help most of the seniors to make it until lunch at 12:30. At the University of Texas, these snacks will hopefully keep him happy in "Orange Heaven."

Below: Mixing chemicals is one of Robert Love's favorite parts of chemistry class. His love for science led him to excel in the UIL science contest at invitational meets and district competition. He hopes his knowledge will get him into a science related field in the Navy where he plans to go upon graduation.

Now I am living my life

Displaying his excitement about the game, Bill Hilde Jimbs Kimbro enjoyed being a cheerleader but was not willing to take off his hat or boots for the "switch day" for the Johnson City pep rally.

After many years in FFA, William Jones realizes how badly he will miss the ag shop and the lasting relationships he has made there. Friends are at the top of the list of priorities to high school students.

Diligent study has won Swedish Exchange Student Lena Leinonen first place at the state literary UIL meet in Literary Criticism. She received most of the scholastic awards for the classes she took here at BHS. Even though she studied a lot, she always took time out to laugh with her friends.

Tracy Ann Mayo

Michael Andrew Nielsen

Neda Fay Oren

Joe Anthony Ramon

Sherry Dee Read

Todd Joseph Rogers

Tracy Mayo likes baseball and the excitement associated with the game. She stays involved in the sport by keeping the statistics and scorebook at the games; her work helps the coaches to better the team.

Joe Ramon was a happy senior at the Sports Banquet in May because he was selected as one of the Most Valuable Players. He was chosen by his fellow team members because he played both in the state meet in the 2-mile run. The others receiving the MVP positions were Neil Uphaw (left) — Baseball, Brooke Myelcke — Tennis and Volleyball, Matt Malone — Tennis, Jerry Ramon — Track, Crystal Cox — Track and Basketball, Robert Uphaw — Basketball and Football Offense, and Mitchell Wagner — Football Defense.

Sea World proved to be an enjoyable adventure for the seniors — mostly just being together having a good time. Sherry Read was impressed with the large pelican because he expressed her childhood days that she can still hold on to until graduation.

Class Song — "Guns 'n' Butter"

And I am doing it right!

After finishing his work in computer math, Mike Nielsen studies with his classmates. His study habits have paid off, which was proven by his 10th place in the UIL State Science contest.

The outgoing personality of Neda Oren is displayed in her many accomplishments and friendly attitude. She is very proud of her basketball pictures, but even more proud of her 2nd place medal from the State UIL meet for Literary Criticism.

Left: Graduation is filled with happiness (being able to get on with life) and sadness (leaving the many friends made) for the 42 that will be walking across the field on May 27. The realization struck Todd Rogers when the graduation announcements were delivered.

Martin Saucedo

Lena Serrano

Sarah Elisabeth Smith

Stacy De Ann Stauffer

Paul Martin Struck

Kimberly Faye Tanksley

Left: The student council is involved in most of the activities around campus. Best Smith represented them as their nominee at the Homecoming Queen contest — a time of celebration and excitement.

One of the rewards for competing in UIL Literary events is going to the UIL "Night Out." Stacy Stauffer's portrayal of "Maggie" in Overtones, for which she received Honorable Mention All Star Cast, provided her with the opportunity to eat at Aquaparis Springs and "take in" a movie. Some of the others standing are Jeff Hood (left), Mike Nierens, Neke Orren, and Dawn Phillips.

At the end-of-summer All-Sports Booster Club picnic, Panther athletes enjoyed a winter roast in Stonehill. Senior Martin Saucedo ate his "muscle-building dinner" and enjoyed being with his friends before the beginning of his final year.

Class Song — Let's Go!

And a change has finally come my way,

After a "hooing" day at Sea World, Lena Serrano joined her friends for a quick rest. The over 200 acre park provided all the seniors with a chance to get their exercise, and by 7:00 all were tired and ready for "Little B."

"Bad to the bone" is a good description of the 1988 Panther baseball team. Paul Struck has played baseball for four years, and especially enjoyed being a member of the team during their outstanding year!

Some new awards this year at the Sports Banquet are the Basketball Heart Awards, Track 110% Awards, and the U.S. Army's Scholar Athlete Award: Tracy Mayo (top left) — Scholar Athlete, Kim Tankley — 110% Award, Chris Morlock (top) — Scholar Athlete, Robert Urdaw — 110% Award, and Jill Klepac — Heart Award, were honored that the coaches gave them this outstanding honor. Martin Saucedo — Heart Award, is not pictured.

Norma Jean Uhallo

Robert King Uphaw

Mitchell Ray Wagner

Darrell Frank West

At the National Honor Society Induction Ceremony, Senior Mitchell Wagner was honored to have been able to be a part of the ceremony by lighting one of the candles indicating a qualification of NHS — character.

Class Party — Girls' Room

Norma Uhallo is a quiet person that watches life and looks for the "calm" pleasures that it provides. Music provides most high school students a tranquil solitude among the turmoil that can be around the next corner which they must be ready to face at all times.

Many seniors and sophomores enjoyed dressing up for the Medieval feast, but they enjoyed more the fun and frolic of the afternoon. Darrell West was "courted" by a handsome suitor, then avenged a damsel's honor in a sword duel. If one describes the majority of the senior class, it has to be "lovable nuts" because these people are the most teasing, taunting group of students that anyone can be around.

Seniors spend a lot of time studying and making good grades to prepare for acceptance into college. These four are dedicated to their books, but still find time to enjoy the events that make being a senior exciting! Neda Oves (left), Chris Moshnik, Cecelia Acosta, and Lena Lemmon were honored for their high grades as "top four."

Gettin' Better Every Day!!!

Robert Uphaw and Stacy Stauffer's involvement in most sports made them easy choices for MOST ATHLETIC of '88. Their aggressiveness, ability, spirit, and outstanding sportsmanship are respected and admired by their fellow seniors.

Left: This "fellow" may be ugly at first, but he and his buddies sure gave a lot of fun and comedy to the day. Most of the seniors enjoyed the walrus and dolphins more than any of the other shows.

Seniors 'sea' Sea World

Shopping for the right stuffed animal, Carla Greenhaw and Sherry Head could not resist these "cute critters." Stuffed animals seemed to be the most popular items sold by the gift shops. These shoppers had their bags full before the day was over — Moments for years to come!

Above Middle: "Wheel Love" was the skate show that made it hard to believe that people can perform on wheels as this group of talented performers. None of the seniors tried any of these maneuvers when they arrived back in Blanco that night!

All Lulu Gonzalez could afford was a hug from this stuffed "life size" penguin. "Spartan" finally found someone her size!

As freshmen, our seniors saw the excitement of the class of '84 when they left on their trip. The '88 seniors were disappointed not having an overnight trip, but they knew the problem — MONEY.

Some class members were reluctant to sell candy, so an abbreviated trip was expected, but as usual they made the best of the situation.

To be fair, the sponsors figured out a point system. Most seniors got from $12 to $35 each, after the $16 ticket price.

After the schedule of shows was figured out, the 30 went in different directions — some to the walrus, water skiers, dolphins, Shamu, and skate board show. Between shows, they enjoyed the Texas Walk, Garden of Flags, 50 state map, and shark and penguin shows.

Sponsors Steve Coston and Edward Lindsay were as enthralled as the seniors. With Mrs. Lindsay, Ann Beckham, and Principal Mike Adkins, they had as much fun discovering the world as the seniors.

At 7:00, they had to get that special group picture in front of the Sea World sign. Thank goodness Tracy Mayo was already set from the Shamu show because she fell in the pond. What a way to end a trip, but if you know the '88 seniors, that is just like them!

Left: Everything usually gets complicated when the '88 seniors get together, their group picture included. They had to lure around and go as extra few blocks to get to the spot, argue about the perfect spot, and get one of the members wet in the process. They argue among themselves, but defend each other to the end.

Below: Brian Krywanski and Penny Edmondson had to figure out their schedule for the day as soon as they walked in the park. They wanted to make sure that "Fishhead" Keith Fisher did not miss any of his relatives' shows.

Shamu is one of Sea World's logos making her show one of the biggest attractions at the park. In the 7,000,000 gallon salt water tank, she is pumped and rewarded so she will please the audience with graceful jumps and splashes that wet a part of the audience.

The ski show is not the typical show that has been seen in other parks. It is like a production with lines performed on water with music and dancing. A few seniors thought these skiers were some of the "funniest."

Seniors romanced in the Orient

Watching your classmates and their dates is one of the most interesting parts of the prom — looking at what others wear and the way they dance. Carrie Lathum's questions to former graduate Cody Engel kept him comparing his prom to hers.

Getting the food together for the prom is handled by the justice mothers. Their largest problems are trying to select the food that the majority of students will eat and having enough without too much left over. Since most of the students and their dates eat out before the prom in Austin or San Antonio, their's is a job of guessing. The ladies doing the great job this year were Linda Croft, Deborah Cox, Norma Ows, Debbie Morhike, Susanne Wertheim, and Cheryl Colles.

When the disc jockey played the right song, Senior Robert Upshaw made every attempt to do "The Blue" — a new dance for the B's. He puts his heart and soul into dancing as much as being an athlete who excels in giving more than 100%.

Above: During the last night before graduation to be spent with his fellow classmates, Senior Keith Fisher's feeling for good "muck n' roll" is expressed on his "gill" face.

Right: Senior Exchange Student Lena Leinonen will always cherish the memories of the prom. They are special to her because she will never see many of her fellow artists again unless she can be persuaded to come to the U.S.A. from Sweden — a "roll" decision between friends and family.

Left: Dressed for the occasion in her Oriental coat, Sponsor Mary Nabers spent some of the time on the dance floor wiring her English students in a completely different way from the classroom. Prom Night shows most students that teachers are "human."

Below: Junior Jeff 'Futz' Ramirez needed the New Braunfels fire department to cool him off from all the dancing from the San Antonio disc jockey that was hired to supply the music. When some of the "attempts" music came on, the wooden floor shook the turntable and made the record skip.

The prom gives Former Graduate Jim Hall and Senior Sherri Edge the chance to be together and spend the evening sharing memories with Briana Buscher. They occasionally paused from their dancing to look back at the past and look toward the future. Their high school years are short, but a great stepping stone into the future they will face next year.

After anticipation and preparation, the prom finally arrived. Dimmed lights, soft music, laughter, and smiles helped the night be a perfect memory. "Romance in the Orient" was planned by the junior class well in advance. As they entered Elks Lodge in New Braunfels and saw the reaction of the seniors, their 3 year work paid off.

Every senior enters the prom with the sad realization that this is their last high school prom and one of the last nights all together before graduation sends them on their separate ways; therefore, they make the most of the situation.

Senior Paul Struck especially enjoyed his last prom because he was also celebrating his 18th birthday. Another event that made this night a special memory was the announcement of Lena Leinonen and Neda Oren winning 1st and 3rd in the state literary criticism contest that day in Austin.

Upon entering the prom, the first thing one would notice is the exceptional array of food. The food was perfect from the cheese carved "88" to the chop sticks!

The long line next to the photographer was the next thing noticed upon entering. The girls knew better than to dance and risk the chance of having their hair fall before their picture with their date.

Decorations were definitely the eye-catching attraction. A huge balloon dragon hung above the dance floor through the "Gateway to the Orient." The freshmen servers handed each guest an oriental fan and a masquerade mask. The walls were decked with fans, carpet murals, and dragons. Each person was also given a program with a poem which fit the evening perfectly.

The majority of the junior girls have not attended a high school prom. When the realization hit, they wanted the prom to be a lifetime memory filled with dancing, joys, and wonderful memories of all their friends.

Right: If you drop the lifesaver at the FFA/FHA Christmas party when it is being passed to you in the contest, it'll drive you mad, but you never want to give up helping your class, because every class strives to be #1 in whatever they do. Joe David Bibe awaited anxiously to get the lifesaver from Wendt Drury and was relieved when he was able to pass on to Lisa Jones completing his part in the juniors' line.

Below: To be selected as favorites of a class, it takes passing grades, membership in other organizations, and helpfulness in class fund raisers. Neil Upshaw and Jill Klepac possess these qualities with great personalities and outstanding sense of humor. Besides helping make the fight dinner and recreation stand a success, Neil and Jill were very active in sports proving this year's worth.

During Homecoming, the balls were designed to show school spirit and support for our football team. Each class had a portion of the ball to decorate. Jeff Boud shows his enthusiasm as he tells the finishing touches on the juniors' design. Lots of tape, cutting paper, and knives were used to emphasize that the juniors wanted the team to win for the returning crew and themselves. All the work paid off when the juniors' section was selected the best.

We the juniors

Juniors have to make a lot of money to put on an outstanding prom to honor the seniors. They raised these funds by having a concession stand on the visitor's side during the seven home football games. Mr. Bob Oms, Mr. Rusty Hicks, and several other parents helped by trading the stands every game.

To raise more funds for the prom, the class held a fight dinner on Sunday afternoon, October 18. The students did their part by selling tickets; the junior girls helped by cooking the meat, and the junior mothers, along with a few students, helped by serving the dinners. From this dinner, the juniors were able to earn over $1,200 for the prom.

Blake Cofley, wearing a head of baby food, blindfolded with tied hands, was the junior who entertained the audience at the pep rally. As a junior, Blake wanted to show that his class had the most spirit from the other baby food eaters — the freshness, suppleness, and smiles. Although Ronnie Edmondson won for the seniors, Blake gave a valiant effort for his class.

Right: Being a senior means having the responsibility of helping the class decrease for the prom. Among the many jobs, Brooks Moshko and Wendt Drury made the area for the gateway. Together, the juniors kept the Romance in the Orient feeling alive and one of the best proms.

Above: To be the top of the class academically takes extra effort and desire. Andy Gruba (bot.), Karen Hicka, Chad Lux, and Jeff Ramirez give extra talent to everything they do to become Top 4.

Right: Showing off your "duds" is one of the most exciting parts of prom night. This is the first time many of the juniors have been "dressed to kill" in rented tuxedos and flowing gowns. Enjoying this lunch looks "awesome."

Left: One of the fun things about becoming a senior is having a senior ring. Not only does it give a sense of pride, but it gives the sense of actually reaching a goal that started 12 years ago. Braden Davis shows his ring with the feeling that he'll treasure his ring for the rest of his life.

Juniors and excellence are synonymous

Right: Most honors that students make start with desire to better themselves and the school around them. At the awards assembly on May 18, these four were honored by the teachers instead of being named by the individual. The Citizenship Award recipients were Scott Glass (bot.), Chad Lux, Brooks Moshko, and Jeff Ramirez. These four can be depended upon; they think of others as much as they do themselves — Golden Rule Followers!

Left: Understanding school work is usually not an easy task. Nancy Stuterman shows that despite being in TAGe and National Honor Society, studying before a test doesn't hurt anyone.

We the sophomores

Below: Having good friends at school makes learning more fun. Chris Taylor and Patrick Jones' exchange of talk makes this day better and more exciting.

Left: Since we were playing the Center Point Pirates for homecoming, a nautical theme was picked by the sophomores to decorate their portion of the hall. Even though Crystal Gos had a cast from a volleyball injury, she did her part in decorating.

The class felt that Mark Stewart and Tim Bowers exhibit the qualities of "model sophomores" to the rest of the student body at BHS. Their grades, work for the class, personalities, and participation in extracurricular activities made them a natural choice for this outstanding honor.

Left: In February, the Senior and Sophomore English classes took a day off from Medieval studies to sample Medieval food and dress in Medieval costumes. Sophomore Key Ketch brought a "side of beef" (meat) to enjoy and share with others.

During break most students can be seen at the snack and soda water machines while others such as Charles Nowicki "crave" for his next class. It is surprising what can be done in a 10 minute break if the person has to work to get the last paragraph finished.

Guarding homeplate is an important task in baseball. In his first year as catcher, Jerry Smith contributed his skills to the award winning baseball squad.

At the medieval banquet held by the Sophomores and Senior English classes, "Giant Billy Pruze" enjoyed sipping his soup in the many delicious courses brought by the individuals.

One of the greatest awards a student can receive is a citizenship award. Teachers nominate students for this award based on their leadership, academic excellence, and overall conduct. The honored sophomores are Mark Felton (far left), Carlos Gale (middle), Becky Kinross, and B. J. Millard (top).

We the freshmen

Selling sweatshirts brought funds to the class treasury, they were blue or white shirts with gold panther jaws. The freshmen take walk at the PTO carnival in October helped raise funds for the yearly projects. Leading the class are President Billy Gray (bottom right), Vice President Danya Fuchs, Secretary/Treasurer Jennifer Genzer, Sponsor Ann Beckham (top left), and Sponsor Bill Spozgin.

Freshmen find it hard to believe that they will some day be the ones that will be attending the bonfire watching them back to BHS to catch up on a few old memories and renew friendships. The fire is excitement to them; they see a lot of unfamiliar faces — what they will be if they do not make a positive mark during their high school years.

Brian Santa showed good sportsmanship at the pep rally when he had to eat a bowl of baby food in competition for the most spirited class of the week. It is embarrassing in favorite freshmen words, but at the same time it is an honor to work for your class under "hardship."

Freshmen make the adjustment from middle school to high school very quickly. They cannot believe that they are finally across the parking lot with all those "older people." Tanika Coffey keeps her eyes open and never misses a thing.

Down Nichols and Shane Johnson are "special" to the freshmen class. In a close election, the class voted them as their favorites for 1987-88.

At the spring concert in May, she had to concentrate on her music, the crowd, and Jerry Frazer's directing to be a part of the show for the audience to enjoy.

Having the highest averages of the freshmen class are Brian Cleary (top, left), Dawn Phillips, Gary Saffers (top), and Billy Gray. Through attention, natural ability, and desire, these 4 are making great strides to be the best they want to be.

An honor bestowed by the upper classmen on freshmen is to ask them to serve at the prom. It gives them a chance to see what they can expect to do for the class above them when they become juniors. Brian Saffers (left), Sabrina Moore, Billy Gray, Dawn Phillips, C. J. Turti, and Raquel Ehridge enjoyed serving the juniors and seniors and being a part of their "Romance in the Orient".

The freshman year is a definite year of discovery. From middle school, they must adjust to a way of life that requires more responsibility on self rather than being told what to do every step of the way. Deyra Fuchs enjoys a few pointers from helpful upperclassmen.

Left: Relationships are constantly developing. Melissa Abbott and Leonard Robinson are always trying to steal a few moments together between the 5 minute class intervals.

We the leaguers

Right: Neda Oren (2nd in district, 3rd at regional) and Lena Leinonen (1st in district, 1st at regional) are the first in Blanton School's history to place two people at the state meet in Austin. Lena placed 1st in Literary Criticism and Neda placed 3rd. Blanton has had an individual place at state a few times, but never two at the same time and in the same event.

Coming back from last year's one point miss to take district, the literary team did their best and came out at the top to win district this year. With a 70 point lead before the one act play, the team gained a total of 249 points, earning "metal" for the trophy case. The team gains individual points for places they attain — 15 for 1st place, 12 for 2nd, 10 for 3rd, 8 for 4th, 6 for 5th, and 4 for 6th.

University Intercholastic League (UIL) preparations started in September, with a Saturday at the University of Texas where all events were explained to prospective competitors. Preparatory invitational meets began in January and February with the district meet in March. Several students participated at practice meets in Mason and Boerne, which helped the students place well at district.

The district meet began at Junction on March 21 and was completed on March 24 at Comfort before spring break. Sponsors Mary Nabers, Janet Mabry, Allen Pooley, Billy Spurgin, Tony Vela, and James Caudell felt confident about all their contestants.

At district, 11 students qualified for regional in Victoria. From there, 4 advanced to state in Austin. Of those 4 students, Neda Oren and Lena Leinonen were awarded with medals for their outstanding accomplishments in Literary Criticism.

11 students spent the night in Victoria on April 21 and started competing the next day. Brooke Mochake — Typing (bot. left), Laura Smith — Headlines, Becky Keresse — Prose Interpretation, Sponsor Allen Pooley, Sponsor Janet Mabry, Andy Crafts — Editorials, Carrie Latham — Typing, Julie Cain — Prose Interpretation, Sponsor Mary Nabers, Robert Love — Science, State Qualifier Neda Oren — Literary Criticism (top), State Qualifier Kay Koch — Spelling, State Qualifier Lena Leinonen — Literary Criticism, State Qualifier Mike Nielsen — Science, and Sponsor Billy Spurgin (not pictured) had a great time representing the Panthers at the regional meet.

JOURNALISM EVENTS: Brianna Bausher — 3rd in district Editorials and 2nd in district Prose and 4th in district Ready Writing and 9th in Boerne Editorials (bot. left), Andy Crafts — 1st in district Editorials and 1st at Boerne meet, Darrell West — Editorials and Headlines, Sherry Reed — 7th in district News Writing (seated), Keith Fisher — Headlines, Laura Smith — 3rd in district Headlines (standing), Lena Leinonen — 2nd in Boerne Feature Writing, Lulu Gonzalez — News Writing, Jeff Ramirez — Feature Writing, Sherri Edge — 4th in district Feature Writing, and Melissa Blackburn — 10th in Boerne News Writing.

Below: Carrie Latham — 2nd in district typing and Brooke Mochake — 1st in district typing were able to use their own machines at the district and regional meets. Computers are very nerve racking, but being able to use your own machine helps break the tension.

PROSE AND POETRY INTERPRETATION: Woodruff Drury — Poetry (bot.), Melissa Roberts — Poetry, Julie Cain — Prose (top), Becky Keresse — 1st in district Prose, and Jerry Ranion — 1st in Boerne Poetry.

LINCOLN DOUGLAS DEBATE, ACCOUNTING, EXTEMPORANEOUS INFORMATIVE SPEAKING, AND TYPING: Dawn Phillips — 5th in district Debate (bot. left), Tarryn Chaner — Accounting, Jeff Hudson — 3rd in district Informative (top), Neels Owen — 5th in district Debate, and Shondell Phillips — 4th in district Typing.

UIL team wins district by 70 points in March

For their UIL performance in Mason, on March 26, our One Act Play team chose to put on Alice Greenberg's Overtones. The play deals with the hypocrisy of society, with Margaret (Karen Hicks) and Harriet (Betsy Smith) acting out false social plays, while their primitive, subconscious selves, Maggie (Stacy Stauffer) and Betty (Neels Owen), show us their true personalities and thoughts. The Blanco One Act Play actors did a super job, and were proud that Neels Owen was chosen to be the All Star Cast, and that Stacy Stauffer received All Star Cast Honorable Mention. The behind scene crew was Cecelia Acosta, Sandra Vargas, and Dawn Shipman, who were responsible for the lighting, props, and sound effects. Crystal Cox and Debra Sawyer were alternates if the four male characters were unavailable.

National Honor Society

Based on scholarship,

Right and Below: Principal Mike Adkins called the National Honor Society the "cream of the crop" at the NHS Induction Ceremony on May 24 in the cafeteria. He told the parents, teachers, and guests that from among the distinguished group can come our leaders and motivators of tomorrow. They are the special individuals that can urge others to push forward "in the right direction." He stressed that they are not just "brave" but individuals who are not in trouble with the office or classroom. Sponsor Edward Lindsay said that through staff recommendation, these people are not in the NHS just by making high grades.

service, leadership, character

Left: Membership in NHS is earned by the effective demonstration of scholarship, service, leadership, and character. Senior Kevin Jonas, Chris Mochelka, Neela Orm, and Mitchell Wagner lit the four candles which illuminate the qualities on which the organization is based. Each of them told the new inductees what is expected of them to fulfill their duties for NHS. Their service project this year was selling slushdrinks to raise money for the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

Each inductee signed their name in the book showing that they were official members in the most distinctive organization in high school. Patrick Jones was "awe struck" that he is respected by the faculty for his service, leadership, and character, not just his high grades.

We the leaders

Rights: If Godfather's Pizza wants students for the Studley Twins, Senior Treasurer Robert Upshaw and Sophomore Representative Leonard Ballanson could bring just as many laughs. These guys were the hit of the student council assembly before the holidays started. When students see leaders having fun, they know that leadership involves more than direction.

Above: Rewards for a job well done make others want to go in the same direction. The council gave the sophomores a business outfit party during lunch because they had the highest percentage of attendance during the month of October. School movies are given to school by the Texas Education Agency, based on average daily attendance in the months of October and March. The sophomore attendance rate was over 96%. Followed by the seniors, juniors, and freshmen. This reward by the council will hopefully encourage good attendance by the other classes.

Above: Singing is not an outstanding quality of our council, but Chaplain Karen Hicks (2nd left) and Secretary Brooke Machnie (hidden in the back row) and the other members gave it "their best shot." Senior Representative Bonnie Edmondson grabbing the microphone singing the lyrics, "five golden rings" from "The Twelve Days of Christmas" got everyone in a festive holiday mood. Caroling by the council with the student body gave everyone a chance to welcome the two-week holiday period.

Left: 17-year-olds with permission and those 18 who give the opportunity to donate blood on January 27. From students and teachers, 37 pints were collected for either an individual or as a policy for all blood needed for 1 year if their families had the need. As a first time giver, Britta Buscher was happy for the experience, but also scared. Sponsored by the council, the drive was successful in getting blood for the South Texas Blood Bank and giving students a first time experience.

W H S

Left: 11 of the 25 members of the student council took a Saturday in September and attended a 1 day workshop in Houston with other councils in our area to share leadership qualities. They formed various committees addressing community projects, new problems, and improvement of inter-scholar relationships. President Chris Machnie felt that the workshop taught them how to make the council more vibrant in school instead of just having dances and filling the candy machine.

Above: At the beginning of school, Brian Kraykowski and one whom agreed up as candidates for co-presidents. During a lunch period, they made campaign speeches telling how they wanted to improve school more and urging the student body to vote. Brian was elected in a very close election.

Above: As Larry, Durrell and Durrell from the "Newhart" show, Chris Machnie (left), Durrell West, and Mark Fellner gave the student body a good laugh on December 18, the day school was let out for the Christmas holidays. These and other comedians acted out some of the funniest skits and advertisements from TV.

We the musicians

Rights: At half time during the Johnson City game, Director Jerry Frazer presented Seniors Paul Struck and Melissa Anderson as Mr. and Miss Panther Band. For 4 years, these 2 have "endured" band life and come out on top, being selected by their fellow musicians as the top people who must represent the true feeling of a band student.

Below: After marching contest, Assistant Drum Major Greg Calamici, sophomore, led the band for Rusty Weirich while he was playing varsity football. He was picked by a panel of judges from among three other band members.

On December 17 before school let out for the Christmas holidays, the 5th grade, junior high, and varsity bands entertained a gym full of parents and townspeople, hoping to give them some holiday cheer from Christmas cards and songs.

For Drum Major Rusty Weirich, band life does not just consist of one job. He plays drums for concerts and jazz and leads the band on the field and during parades. As assistant drum major last year, he learned the "ropes" and progressed to his present position.

Lena Leimonen came to our school as a Swedish exchange student as a senior. She took the challenge and joined band knowing that music is the universal language.

At marching contest in Honda on October 10, our band earned a B. The judges said that the mark times were excellent and the show had great audience appeal. The closing remark was to keep working on fundamentals and we may be a 1 band next year at marching contest. The band wants the "Blanco Folks" to be proud of the band while they perform.

Before school begins, area residents enjoy watching the Blanco County Fair and Roster parade in Johnson City. After a "hot" week of band camp in Fieber, our talented band was happy to "show off" the knowledge acquired from extended playing and marching.

13 members of the band have put forth an extra amount of practice to become a small jazz group. They performed at the Christmas concert, showing that they wanted to go beyond just the requirements of playing.

Being able to motivate members is one of the qualities that a FHA officer possesses. Sovier Neda Owen demonstrates her leadership qualities by encouraging participation in the outreach program for the elderly.

One of the purposes of the FHA is to serve the community and what better way to do this than to spend some time with the elderly in one of our local nursing homes. Tammy Mayo (left) and Laila Gonzalez were pleased that their visit to the Live Oak Medical Center brought great joy to the man.

To break tension and encourage members to participate during group meetings, the officers decided to begin each meeting with a relaxer. Jerry Smith seems to be enjoying himself dipping his face in whipped cream in hopes of finding the life saver at the bottom so that his team can win the lifesaver pass.

We the home builders

Team members Sandra Vargas, Frances Upshaw, Betty Ubalde, Cecilia Acosta, and Laila Gonzalez were pleased that their hard work and dedication paid off at the 1988 Leadership Conference held January 29 in San Antonio. Their display, entitled FHA — Vision of Success, was one of the best displays to have advanced to the state competition. The team owes special thanks to Ag Teacher Steve Cassin and his students for helping them to build the display.

As advisor, Gail Summy keeps things moving for our local FHA chapter. She is often seen lending a helping hand whenever and wherever she is needed. She is truly a special lady and a friend to all.

Right: During teacher in-service before school started on September 1, the FFA and FHA chapters provided the faculty with a "rural" breakfast in the cafeteria. Advisor Steve Conant scrambled 15 dozen eggs in the new leasing pan. Brotherhood between FFA and FHA starts at the beginning of every year and grows throughout the year.

We the providers

Agriculture. There was a time when the word agriculture meant only farming. As we near the 21st century, agriculture now means so much more. A huge, complex industry has evolved from our basic needs for food and fiber. The agricultural industry needs bright, skilled leaders to keep it the most productive, dependable food system in the world.

Vocational agriculture and the FFA are helping to prepare these new leaders by providing the training, instruction and motivation necessary for students to reach their full potential.

Sausage, fruit, smoked turkeys, ham, bacon, and hay sales during the fall semester enabled the chapter to provide a banquet with awards, enter leadership and judging contests, and pay for travel expenses to the area judging contests. Senior Jimbo Kirtson sold Teacher Shylve Brooks a box of "super" sausage to raise funds for the treasury.

Providing brotherhood and sharing what you know and what you have with others is a goal of FFA. Before the Thanksgiving holidays Treasurer Joel Gourley (middle) and Sentinel Darrell West shared one of their projects and knowledge with Eltona McFarland's Kindergarten class. The amusing questions from these first year students enabled the members to share their knowledge.

FFA nominee Kim Tarkley was crowned as the field during Homecoming by her father, Charles Tarkley. She was one of the seven nominees out of 18 senior girls chosen by each of the seven organizations to be voted on by the student body and crowned before the packed stands. The FFA members were happy that Kim represented their organization that night.

Providing prize winning livestock and outstanding showmanship are two goals of a FFA member. Clint Wood's supervised occupational experience project won him a champion, reserve champion, and a 5th place at the county show in January at Johnson City.

Patriotism is an integral part of FFA. The reporter's symbol is the flag which informs others that FFA is a national organization that believes in our country. On Constitution Day, Treasurer Joel Gourley (left), Sentinel Darrell West and Reporter Todd Rogers raised the flag in front of the high school while the band played the national anthem. FFA is asked to be the color guard at most school events.

We the policymakers

On the second Monday night of each month, the School Board meets with an agenda that can include setting of tax rates, approving school purchases and audit reports, planning facilities, examining reports on tests and attendance, and continuing personnel contracts.

All of the above actions of the School Board are centered around the students, so that they may be exposed to a quality education. The Board's goal is to provide a positive learning environment where a student can expand his mind and later become a happy, successful citizen.

Those holding positions on the School Board receive no compensation. A member is backed by the voters of the district who believe that the person can make competent decisions. Our Board strives to provide the necessary elements for a good education.

Considering the voter's side on all matters prescribed by the state for BISO is a major part of President Angie Smith's job.

Top & Below: Jim Klyse (top) and Jim Larson ran unopposed in the April, 1987 election. They want the best possible education for the district.

Top & Below: Mary Ann Millard (top) and Bill Cain consider issues that will provide an environment so students can always better themselves.

Middle & Bottom: Vice President Floyd Cooley (middle) and Secretary Bonnie Riley offer experience and knowledge gained at workshops to better the school system.

Commended by Board for leadership excellence

Superintendent Larry Mochne feels that when you are just average, you are as close to the bottom as the top. He strongly believes that there is no reason for our schools to be average since Bianco has the key ingredients to be exemplary.

The work Mr. Mochne does to better our school system is necessary to achieve success. He participates in conferences that concern all aspects of school administration — improving instruction, developing improvement plans, financial management, and school/community relations.

Mr. Mochne is satisfied only when he has the knowledge that our school program has been improved from the previous year. The School Board commended him for his selection as one of 30 superintendents from the state to play an active part in the pilot program to train executive level administrators in the Meadows Executive Leadership Program. This project requires 36 days of training on weekends and during the summer. He believes all educators must continue to improve their skills and address the needs of today's young people.

Mr. Mochne is responsible for seeing that competent teachers are hired to fill vacancies in the district. He bases his opinion on a strong background in the content subject area, good recommendations from previous employers, giving the impression of liking young people, and desiring to improve his/her skills.

Top & Below: Joy Brussel (top with 24 years experience) and Carl Spurgin (9 years) have grown in knowledge from workshops and experience to run the office of the superintendent.

We the administrators

Right: The School Board hires a principal to achieve a good learning environment for the students. High School Principal Mike Adkins has been working with Blanco for two years coordinating activities so that the goals of our school system can be met.

A good school day, according to High School Principal Mike Adkins, is a day where the maximum learning potential of all students is achieved in each class period. "I feel the students of Blanco High are indeed fortunate to have a strong, experienced, dedicated staff of teachers working with them daily. It is our goal to provide each Blanco High graduate with the academic skills to become a successful, productive member of this society."

When questioned about interviewing prospective teachers for employment, Mr. Adkins indicated that a good teacher should possess a strong knowledge of the subject teaching area, have good work/personal references, have those "people skills" necessary to motivate and guide, and project enthusiasm and excitement about teaching. A teacher with these qualities should be successful in the teaching profession.

Concerning his chosen profession and a motto he might apply to school life in general, Mr. Adkins' reply was, "Be positive, respect others, and strive to be the best. I am happy and I sincerely enjoy my chosen profession in life. I care for and respect the people I work with here at BSD, both staff and students, and I hope through my actions to positively enhance the work/learning environment."

Below: Mike Adkins attracts attention through his introductions at most school programs. Before the student council vice president business made their speeches, Mr. Adkins encouraged the voting student body to listen intently to what the candidates were saying in order to select the best candidate for the job.

Left: Principals assume many different jobs during the school day. Elementary/Middle School Principal Joe Summy spends part of each day around the campus observing students and their work. His encouraging helps students know that they can count on his support.

To Elementary/Middle School Principal Joe Summy, "involvement" means being there to help people work through their problems. He believes you are not there to take on their problems, but to help them clarify the problems in order to better solve them. He always encourages others in their activities to give freely of themselves and their time.

Being professional is a top priority of Mr. Summy. The "unexpected" is part of his everyday life, and he wants to handle everything professionally.

A good day for Mr. Summy is turning problems into possibilities. When students and colleagues understand, he feels that he has helped them. "Taking risks is reaching for a star."

Below: Overseeing school functions is one of the duties of a principal. In the parking lot on September 17, the Constitution Day celebration involved the student body of both schools. When students see Mr. Summy as an intelligent, law-abiding citizen, they have a model to follow.

Left: As secretary to Mr. Summy for 4 years, Terry Price has seen his office mature into a modern working environment.

During the pep rally before the J.C. game, the drill team performed a routine in football uniforms. Drill Team Sponsor Shyrle Brooks gladly acted her part, dressed up as a referee, whistle and all.

On September 17th, schools all over the nation paused for a few minutes to reflect on the 200th anniversary of our Constitution. During the nationwide game, Carol Summy and the entire student body saluted our flag and sang the Star Spangled Banner with pride and respect. Misty eyes were looking at the flag while their voices steadily sang.

For a group of 20 TAG students, a big event on December 5th and 6th was to spend the weekend in Galveston during the Dickens' Festival. The trip was made possible by four sponsors — Janet Mabry (left), Tammie Newman, Mary Nabors, and Tony Vela — who went along to guide the students. After meeting with Dickens' old characters, tasting Victorian treats, and spending several interesting and enjoyable hours on the Strand, they all purchased sweatshirts to wear the following Monday.

Sports enable students to fill their afternoons and a few nights each week with activities that teach them teamwork, sportsmanship, and competition. Richard Johnson spends nearly every afternoon after school, coaching football, girls' basketball, or baseball hoping to add happiness to his students' teenage lives.

At the end of each grading period, the teachers average grades and report the students' progress to their parents. Working with both 5th and 6th grades, Mary Falmer has many students to monitor, and to "keep books on" — a part of every teacher's work.

We the memories

Emotions run high when the Homecoming Queen is announced before the game. There is great anticipation among the crowd as everyone eagerly awaits the news. A great touch of excitement follows when High School Principal Mike Adkins presents new Queen Stacy Stauffer with a spray of flowers and crown as her proud father looks on.

A lot of time goes into building up the bonfire, just to have it burn in the ground in twenty minutes. But it is worth the effort because everyone in town then knows that Homecoming is the next night. The great blaze can be seen all town.

The student council sponsored a hall decorating contest for Homecoming. Each class selected a theme and decorated its section of the hall according to this theme. The students were allowed to decorate after school on the Wednesday before Homecoming. Friday morning before school the halls were judged and the winning section selected.

This year, the junior's strong theme, "Sink the Pirates," and their innovative ideas won them first place. The other classes also had excellent decorations.

Although tradition was changed this year by not having a Homecoming Parade, enthusiasm remained strong before the game. After school Friday, excitement and anticipation were high.

The Homecoming game was played on Friday, September 18, against the Center Point Pirates. The boys gave their favorite girls mums, which were sold by the All-Sports Booster Club and local flower shops. All the spectators, especially the returning graduates, enjoyed the satisfaction of seeing the Panthers beat the Pirates, 21-14.

At the bonfire, all the Homecoming Queen Nominees are presented with trophies supplied by each one's organization. The student body has already voted, but nobody knows who the winner is. The 1987 Queen Nominees are: Dawn Frische — Football (left), Sherri Edge — Drill Team, Stacy Stauffer — Cheerleaders, Rene Smith — Student Council, Lulu Gommier — FHA, Kim Tankley — FFA, and Melissa Anderson — Band.

The excitement starts as the senior boys light their matches in preparation to ignite the bonfire. This bonfire comes only once in a student's life, his senior year.

Homecoming is one of the first highlights to occur in the school year. This year, Homecoming was held earlier than usual, being the third week after school started.

The football team, drill team, cheerleaders, student council, FHA, FFA, and band chose a senior girl from among seventeen to represent them on the field Homecoming night. The football team was able to pick first.

The pep rally and bonfire had great attendance with quite a few alumni, especially last year's seniors, showing up to see the Homecoming Queen Nominees presented.

Hauling wood started a week before the bonfire on Monday, September 14. Many students volunteered their services and resources to load up the trucks and trailers with wood.

Some senior boys also took the time to protect the bonfire by spending the night at the site on Wednesday. Each year there are attempts to burn the pile of wood down. But this year the boys kept everything quiet. Sleeping in the back of trucks and vans was easy, but staying awake to watch and hearing strange noises are the hard parts. Eklise Beth Struck, a senior mom, watched the bonfire while students were at school so that a last minute catastrophe wouldn't occur.

We the pepper-uppers

Keeping enthusiasm high for the teams is the main duty of Head Cheerleader Stacy Stauffer. She has been a cheerleader during both her junior and senior years. Her imaginative way of thinking included wearing a T-shirt signed by all the Panthers that wanted to get revenge on the Eagles and bring the steady championship back to B.H.S.

What does it take to be a cheerleader? At the end of each year girls are selected to support the teams the following year. The girls are judged by the student body on poise, enthusiasm, coordination, and rhythm. They are also judged by their teachers on their classroom ability, attitude, grades, and leadership. The scores of the student body and of the teachers are combined to determine the cheerleaders for next year.

While most teams were relaxing during their summer vacation, the 5 cheerleaders for the '87-88 year were working hard to become an outstanding squad. They attended camp in San Antonio for one week during August. There they learned new routines, cheers, and chants, which were brought back home to perform at the pep rallies and during the games.

Each Friday the cheerleaders perform everything they have learned for the entire school to produce a feeling of pride for the students of Blanco High and especially for the team members that play that night.

A paraphrase is the sign of a cheerleader. Sophomore Alison Kierrot knows that using it at games can keep the audience alive and inspire the team.

A cheerleader must be confident in front of a crowd, physically fit, and show leadership, and, of course, be cheerful. Their responsibilities include promoting a desire to win in the team members, and a feeling of supportiveness in the fans.

Each Friday morning during football season, players look forward to finding a decorated bag of goodies in their lockers that the cheerleaders secretly place there the night before. The cheerleaders are also responsible for decorating the halls with signs that support the various sport teams and locker decorations for the members of the teams and organizations.

The 1987-88 cheerleaders make good examples of what a cheerleader should be because they have true enthusiasm, confidence, and are always cheerful.

Although Melissa Roberts suffered from a back injury during volleyball, it didn't keep her from most of her activities, such as performing in the pep rallies before the football games. During this pep rally, the junior high cheerleaders were invited to join the varsity cheerleaders in some of the cheers.

The responsibility of keeping the school fired up was left to Julie Cain, Melissa Roberts, and Alison Kierrot, during the pep rally because Stacy Stauffer and Jill Klepac were participating in a volleyball tournament. It seemed strange to them and the audience, but the girls can produce when they are put in a different position.

Many hours of practice are needed to produce a cheer that will inspire the football team to a win. Their practice shows in a passed stunt performed by Jill Klepac and Julie Cain.

We the high kickers

Above: The high kick routine, the most physical of all routines, brings the most response from the audience during halftime. The girls work all year to improve their high kicking abilities in order to make their show an outstanding performance.

DRILL TEAM OFFICERS: Captain Wendell Drury (left), 2nd Lieutenant Becky Keesee, Sergeant Lisa Allen (right), and 1st Lieutenant Nancy Southerman. In June of '87, these girls attended camp at Legum where their outstanding performances earned them a "Sweepstakes" team rating. Nancy won a trophy for her #1 performance on "drill down." After these officers returned, they spent a week in July teaching the other members their carefully practiced routines.

At the Johnson City football game, 1st Lieutenant Nancy Southerman received the "Miss Pantherette" award from her fellow drill team members. Their decision was based upon Nancy's leadership, dancing ability, scholarship, and personality outside of drill team. On behalf of the drill team, Captain Wendell Drury awarded Nancy a Miss Pantherette pin, a trophy, and a patch for her letter jacket.

Phillips received from selling pizzas helped the team to buy a new cassette player and other needed items. Seniors Sherri Edges and Dawn Fritsche and Spouse Sheryl Brooks were happy that the sale enabled the girls to meet their goals.

Learning to play as a team while using their individual talent will hopefully enable these seniors to prepare for the competition world they are about to approach.

Volleyball is a game that requires teamwork between the 6 players on the floor. Working together, they can get a good spike that the other team cannot return. Brooke Moschke demonstrated outstanding setting ability for which she made 1st team all district.

Crystal Cox (bottom) and Jill Klepac were chosen by the district coaches as All-District players. With Crystal's 17 points and 12 rebound average per game, she was a natural choice for 1st team. She also made Honorable Mention All-Cox-Tex. Jill was a good outside shooter and "scrappy" rebounder — when it was impossible for her to get the ball, she managed to come up with it anyway.

Even though Melissa Roberts suffered from a back injury during most of the season, she was one of the most "intense" players on the court. Her heart was always in the game.

Progress, enthusiasm describes season

"Progress and enthusiasm describes our basketball season," said Coach Richard Johnson. "The developed positive attitude coupled with our improved outside shooting gave us momentum to have a successful season. The team exceeded the win record I had set for them in my mind."

The most exciting games were both with the Johnson City Eagles, such as by the Eagles by 2 points. After the game here, the team went to J. C. with the feeling that they might be destroyed, but managed them point for point. The 3 point shot at the basket that rolled around the rim and fell out left the Lady Panthers on the short end of a 41-39 score.

The return of 4 starters plus the outstanding positive attitude developed during the last half of the season encourages the team for next year's performance.

We the girl hoopers

As the senior starter, Stacy Stauffer's leadership kept the momentum going on the floor. She always wanted the best for the team — an attitude of a great athlete.

Plays start with "quarterback" Nancy Southernman. As point guard, her playing helped win 20% of the 25 games played.

Honorable Mention All-District Senior Martin Sauredo put forth his best effort all season, thus contributing to a winning season.

Because of quickness on the court and excellent guarding ability, Senior Chris Moshko earned a spot on the Honorable Mention All-District team.

After helping the Panther team in many victories, Junior Neil Upham fell behind to have been picked 1st Team All-District and Honorable Mention All-Centex.

Natural skill and ability made Senior Robert Upham an obvious candidate for 1st Team All-District. He was also named to the Honorable Mention All-Centex team.

We the individuals

Track is an individual sport in which high school students can compete. Individual totals count toward making the team score which can win a track meet.

The team competed in the Antler Relays in Kerrville, Texas Relays in Wimberley, Cavalier Relays in Lake Travis, and the Billy Relays in Fredericksburg before the district meet in Wimberley on April 15. At these meets, the individuals hone their skills to a fine point.

Coach David Hamus was extremely impressed with the improvements in times of both groups. The team performance level improved tremendously over last years.

Joey Ramon (left) was the only Panther that qualified for the state meet on May 14. His district performance in the 2-mile run was 10:14. At the regional and state level, his time improved to 10:07. At the state meet, he placed 6th against a field of eight.

The 400 meter relay and High Jumper Crystal Cox also qualified for the regional meet in Victoria. Even though they did not make state, the experience gained showed them that talent is abundant in Texas, and it is quite an honor to run in Austin.

Jeff Hudson and Robert Love (above) practiced many hours getting the hang of the fiberglass pole and were grateful for the new stuffed landing mats that were bought to upgrade the program.

BOYS TRACK TEAM with district placement: J.V. Bills Gray (bot. left) — 6th discus and 1st 600 meter relay; Jerry Smith — 110 and 300 meter hurdles; Patrick Jones — 4th 800 meter run and 3rd 1600 meter run; Tim Runners — 6th 400 meter run and 1st 1600 meter relay; J.V. We the handlers Right: Nancy Smitherman and Jill Klepac have played doubles since their Jr. High tennis days. They have attended camps during the summer to improve their skills. They missed regional tennis in Victoria by a slim margin, but they hope to improve their 3rd place position next year.

1988 has been a busy season for the team. Their meets started on February 11 and lasted until April 9, the district tennis tournament in Fredericksburg.

At Lago Vista, Fredericksburg, Johnson City, Burnet, Marble Falls, Kerrville, and Canyon, our team developed and fine tuned their skills.

Coach Ann Beckham said that with the addition to team tennis, each individual was able to see their potential as an individual and team member. She feels this group, being young, will excel next year by the district meet, if not sooner. They have lots of desire and ability.

Brooke Moehnke and Matt Malone were voted Most Valuable Players by their fellow team members. Their names are on the plaques in the high school building.

Sophomore Darrell Flidbeck (above) and Junior Rodney Preiss won consolation at the district meet. "Spunk" is a quality that doubles partners must have to play successfully together. Darrell and Rodney's "spunk" improves each year making them serious contenders in the game.

Right: For 22 years, Coach Ann Beckham has coached tennis — her first love — seeing the program grow from two small asphalt courts to a lyko coated surface. Every year she tries to improve the program by adding practice equipment — ball machines, playback net, etc.

Team displays desire and potential

Varsity Doubles: Erica Wagner (bat, left), Carrie Latham, Nancy Smitherman, Jill Klepac, Rusty Weirich (bat), Neil Upshaw, Darrell Flidbeck, and Rodney Preiss.

Sophomore Matt Malone has exhibited skill at an early age playing singles. At the district meet, he lost third place in a 7-5, 6-1 match. His team members voted him Most Valuable Player this year, an honor usually given to an older player.

JUNIOR VARSITY TENNIS: Baquell Etheridge (bat, left), Henna Chavez, Aimee Wagner, B. J. Millard (bat), Kevin Maddox, Billy Prosko, Leonard Robinson, Clint Wood, and Mark Feliner.

Baseball makes

Right: The old saying that the "third time is charm" holds true for Coach Bryan Wyatt. The Panthers have made the playoffs for two years, but not until this year did they get to Diach-Falk Field under his direction. "Deafened physically and emotionally from an 8-inning, 6-4 semi-final victory over Holliday that ended at 1 a.m. Friday, Coach Wyatt said that errors and walks killed them in the 10:30 a.m. final game." Eric Zeman, Sports News, Sat., June 11, 1988.

Below: As the first step toward the state tournament, Coach Bryan Wyatt and the team were presented with cakes from parents and fans when they won the district title. Eddie Calomest with the stolen bases title (2nd left), Relief Pitcher Rodney Pries showing mound mastery in the playoffs, Coach Wyatt, Bookkeeper Tracy Mayo, Neil Upshaw (leading the team in batting average, 40 percent runs, 41 hits, 7 home runs, 26 walks, and 40 RBI's), Pitcher Hiner and 4th Outfielder Paul Struck (back), Travis Davis leading the team in triples, and Pitching Ace Chris Moebrake felt the backing of the fans throughout their history-making season. This support from the townspeople inspired the team to be the best they could be!

1988 Baseball Blanco Style (.381 Team Batting Average): Junior Neil Upshaw (bat. left) — 1st All District Outfield, Hon. Men. All Cen Tex. .452 bat. avg.; Junior Jesse Ruiz — Shortstop with .200 bat. avg.; Junior Rusty Weirich — Outfielder with .400 bat. avg.; Sophomores Matt Malone — 2nd All District Outfield, State All Tournament Team with .347 bat. avg. (made the score in the state playoff game batted in by Chris Moebrake); Junior Rodney Pries — 2nd All District Pitcher with .179 bat. avg.; Sophomore Jerry Smith — Hon. Men. District and All Cen Tex. Catcher with .390 bat. avg.; Senior Robert Upshaw — 1st All District Infield, Hon. Men. All Cen Tex. State All Tournament Team with .431 bat. avg.; Coach Bryan Wyatt (top); Senior Paul Struck — 4th Outfielder and Pitch Hitter with .253 bat. avg.; Senior Chris Moebrake — 1st All District Pitcher, Hon. Men. All Cen Tex. with .291 bat. avg.; Sophomores Darrell Fishbeck — 2nd All District Infield with .386 bat. avg.; Senior Travis Davis — 2nd All District Outfielder with .309 bat. avg.; Sophomore B. J. Millard — Infield with .364 bat. avg.; Senior Mitchell Wagner — 2nd All District Pitcher with .342 bat. avg.; Senior Eddie Calomest — 1st All District Infield, State All Tournament Team with .439 bat. avg.; and Assistant Coach Richard Johnson. Not pictured are Ben Boy Thaddeus Millard, Bookkeeper Tracy Mayo, J.V. Rusty Fritzsche, J.V. Christopher Torti, J.V. Billy Prosko, J.V. Mauro Serrano, and J.V. Clint Wood.

Blanco history

Left: A baseball player's dream is to be able to play at UT's Diach-Falk Field in Austin — the World Series of High School Baseball. The 1988 Baseball team was presented individual medals and the runner-up trophy for their outstanding season by providing themselves and fans with STYLE baseball.

Middle Left: His .957 fielding average means that Mitchell Wagner made an extremely small amount of errors when receiving the ball from players or batters. His versatility on the mound and infield was the kind of talent that helped put the Panthers "where they had never been before" — in the State Baseball Tournament.

During the baseball season, our Panthers were rated No. 2 by the sports writers of Texas from 134 conference 2A schools. On June 10 at Diach-Falk Field, Blanco was State Runner-Up Winner in Class 2A Baseball.

With six returning seniors and new assistant coach — Rick Johnson, Coach Bryan Wyatt knew that the season was going to be outstanding. For 2 years, he had teams that had threaded their way to the playoffs. With the birth of his daughter Mallory Elise Wyatt on May 30, he knew the team was destined to bring Blanco to a distinction never attained in it's sports history.

Besides the outstanding team and his first child, Coach Wyatt was ecstatic at the playoffs because his dad — Assistant Coach Bill Wyatt — also had his team from 1A Maud where Bryan had coached before Blanco. Both were runners-up for the baseball divisions at the 40th UIL State Baseball Tournament.

Jubilations and congratulations after the quarter and semi-final games kept the players and fans in a state of excitement because the games were extremely close and not until the 7th and 8th innings were the Panthers determined the winners. Players like Robert Upshaw enable a team to make history. He has been the most consistent player for four years, making All District every year and getting television and newspaper coverage from his ability and being a younger brother of Chaggy Upshaw — a Blanco boy that is a national league player. Only one player from Region IV was selected to play in the All Star game in Houston's Astrodome on June 25, and Robert was the deserving recipient.

Chris Moebrake can be pitcher or first baseman showing his versatility as an outstanding athlete. As a pitcher, he won 8 games, lost 2 and struck out 99 batters. At first base, he had 241 fielding attempts with only 8 errors for the season giving him the team's best fielding average of .957.
