47@ REHDER

Ben Rehder's love of the outdoors has influenced much of his writing, including his Blanco

'County comic mysteries revolving around a Texas game warden and a colorful cast of rural characters. Novels from that series have made best-of-the-year lists in Publishers Weekly, Library Journal, Kirkus Reviews, and Field & Stream. Buck Fever, the first in the series, was a finalist for the Edgar Award for Best First Novel from the Mystery Writers of America. Get Busy Dying, the second novel in Rehder's Roy Ballard mystery series, was a finalist for the Shamus Award. Rehder's standalone novel, The Chicken Hanger, won the Texas Philosophical Society's Award of Merit in 2013. Rehder lives with his wife near Austin, where he was born and raised.

Returning sponsor and RBTW friend Kara Cleaver founded La Vie Estate Winery on a beautifully terraced 26 acres in Blanco, Texas. With breathtaking views for miles, La Vie is situated at the highest elevation on Ranch Road 1623, the connecting route between Highway 281 and Highway 290, the Texas Wine Trail. Formerly known as the Circle H Ranch, it is a perfect fit for La Vie's "happiness" motto and living life to its fullest. Circle H Red wine is a tribute to this journey.
